Biography

Alan is a third-generation magician. His father is George Sands, renowned magician, author, and inventor of magic routines. George is famous among magicians worldwide for his Sandsational Rope routine and for publishing the pioneering book on balloon animal sculpting. Alan began assisting his father on stage when he was only three years old. By age six, Alan was entertaining his own audiences. He won his first magic competition at age 12 and began performing professionally at 17. Alan worked his way through college, performing at Fisherman's Wharf, Ghirardelli Square and Pier 39 in San Francisco, and he's never looked back. He's spent the last 35 years performing his unique brand of eccentric comedy, magic, and hypnosis for audiences around the world.

Technical Requirements

Alan requires an 8' x 12' raised platform. A sound system is required for outdoor venues and audiences larger than 50 people.
